October 5, 2010

Peter M. Burrows, Ph.D.

Honoring
Memorial Seminar

FORESTRY and LIFE SCIENCES
College of Agriculture, Clemson University

October 5, 1938 - February 21, 2002

H. Peter Burrows was a native of Wyoming, England. His formal education included a BSc in Agricultural Chemistry from the University of London, a Ph.D. in Environmental Science from the University of Reading, and a Certificate in Forest Science from the University of Oxford. He was a distinguished professor and researcher in the field of forest ecology and sustainable forest management. His work focused on the development of sustainable forest management practices and the improvement of forest ecosystems through genetic improvement and ecologically sound harvesting methods. His research contributed significantly to the understanding of forest ecology and the development of sustainable forest management practices. He was a prolific writer and published extensively in leading scientific journals. His contributions to the field of forest ecology and sustainable forest management have been widely recognized, and he was a member of numerous scientific societies and organizations. His legacy continues to inspire and influence the field of forest ecology and sustainable forest management.
REPRESENTATIVES

Dr. Gary has a record of continuous funding from NIH, FDA, USDA, and private sources. He is a member of the editorial boards of several leading journals in his field.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Dr. Gary's work has been supported by grants from the National Institutes of Health, the National Science Foundation, and the National Institutes of Mental Health.

THOMAS W. GEARY, PH.D.

Professor Emeritus

At the Ohio State University, Dr. Gary has mentored hundreds of students and postdoctoral fellows, many of whom have gone on to careers in academia, industry, and government.

REFERENCES

Gary has published over 200 articles in peer-reviewed journals, and has authored several books on his area of expertise.

THE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE, FORESTRY AND LIFE SCIENCES

The College of Agriculture, Forestry and Life Sciences at Ohio State University is dedicated to the advancement of agricultural, forestry, and life sciences research and education.

PETER M. BURTON, PH.D.

Honors the career and contributions of

Professor Emeritus

The Ohio State University, College of Agriculture, Forestry, and Life Sciences